B E N E F I T S O F S T U D E N T S E R V I C E A N D S E R V I C E - L E A R N I N G Although still in the early stages, studies suggests that schools with well-designed service and service-learning programs can provide a number of benefits for students, teachers, schools, after-school programs, and communities. These benefits, which have emerged from existing studies, deserve to be followed up with more rigorous research. In 2000, the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, a long-time supporter of service-learning, appointed a National Commission on Service-Learning. The Commission, cospon-sored by the John Glenn Institute for Public Service and Public Policy and chaired by former U. S. Senator John Glenn, spent a year studying the state of service-learning CHARACTER EDUCATION in the Nations schools. The Commission consisted of 18 education, government and community leaders. The Commissions findings are included below. The findings Character education helps young took account of a study of K-12 school-based programs conducted between 1994 people to know, care about, and act upon core ethical values such as and 1997 to evaluate Learn and Serve Americas service-learning programs and also fairness, honesty, compassion, included other program experience. For more details from the Commissions report, go responsibility, and respect for self to www. learningindeed. org slcommission. A summary of the Learn and Serve and others. While parents and other America report can be found at www. learnandserve. org research. family members have the primary responsibility...
