On reaching the lock-up, I turned to two friends, Randolph ud Johnson, both colored men like myself, and who had followed me from the club-room j-ihe lock-up, and asked them to keep for me the keys of the club. An officer of the police at once seized the keys, saying, No, they shant have them; well keep them (otwiTes. I was then conducted to a cell and locked up; I had been there some little tiie. when Edward Erwin, a member of my club, was put in with me. About one and a half hours later I was bailed out by Colonel W. Roy and Captain William Wright. The itt moming I appeared before Recorder Webber, and no charge buing against me, I was ifinred to go. On the 27th...
